The duty to take reasonable care

If you apply for life insurance, you will be treated as if you are applying for cover under an individual consumer insurance contract. The Insurer will conduct a process called underwriting. It's how it decides whether it can cover you, and if so on what terms and at what cost.

As part of underwriting, the Insurer will ask questions it needs to know the answers to. These will be about your personal circumstances, such as your health and medical history, occupation, income, lifestyle, pastimes, and current and past insurance.

The information you provide in response to those questions will be vital to the Insurer's decision. As such, when applying for life insurance you have a legal duty to take reasonable care not to make a misrepresentation to the Insurer. A misrepresentation is a false answer, an answer that is only partially true, or an answer which does not fairly reflect the truth.

This duty also applies when extending or making changes to existing insurance, and reinstating insurance. If you do not meet your legal duty, this can have serious impacts on your insurance. Your cover could be avoided (treated as if it never existed), or its terms may be changed. This may also result in a claim being declined or a benefit being reduced. Whether the Insurer can exercise one of these remedies depends on a number of factors, including:

- whether reasonable care was taken not to make a misrepresentation. This depends on all of the relevant circumstances.
- what the Insurer would have done if the duty had been met - for example, whether it would have offered cover, and if so, on what terms
- whether the misrepresentation was fraudulent; and
- in some cases, how long it has been since the cover started.

Before any of these remedies are exercised, the Insurer will explain the reasons for its decision, how to respond and provide further information, and what you can do if you disagree.

Guidance for answering the questions in this form

You are responsible for the information provided to the Insurer. When answering questions, please:

- Think carefully about each question before you answer. If you are unsure of the meaning of any question, please ask us before you respond.
- Answer every question.
- Answer truthfully, accurately and completely. If you are unsure about whether you should include information, please include it.
- Review your application carefully before it is submitted. If someone else helped prepare your application (for example, your adviser), please check every answer (and if necessary, make any corrections) before the application is submitted.

Please note that there may be circumstances where the Insurer later investigates whether the information given to it was true. For example, it may do this when a claim is made.

Changes before your cover starts

Before your cover starts, the Insurer may ask you whether the information that has been given as part of your application for insurance remains accurate or whether there has been a change to any of your circumstances. As any changes might require further assessment or investigation, it could save time if you let us or the Insurer know about any changes when they happen.

If you need help

It's important that you understand your obligations and the questions that are being asked. Please contact us for help if you have difficulty understanding the process of obtaining insurance or answering any questions.

Please also let us know if you're having difficulty due to a disability, understanding English or for any other reason - we're here to help and can provide additional support.

- If you're retired or not working, select 'light manual'. Open cut miners are classified as Heavy Manual, not Mining.
- Your selected Occupation Group will apply to all your insurance with us. Any new insurance premiums will apply to your total insurance cover, including existing Basic Cover, Voluntary Cover and / or Income Protection insurance, from the date we receive this form and your application is accepted by our insurer.
- If you don't select a Occupation Group you could pay more for your insurance than you have to. Refer to the PDS and Insurance Guide for more information about job classifications and how it may impact your insurance.

3. Your insured salary

- Your salary is used to calculate the cost and amount of your Income Protection insurance.
- You can choose a lower amount than your actual salary to reduce your insurance cost.
- If you make a successful claim the amount we'll pay you will be based on the lesser of your insured salary and the salary calculated in accordance with the policy terms. In most cases this is the actual salary you earned over the 12 months prior to becoming disabled. You won't receive benefits on any overstated salary you didn't actually earn.
- The salary you choose will remain in place until you advise us otherwise.
- It's important to keep your salary details updated so you receive the correct benefit and pay the correct premiums.
- To find out more read the information below titled How to calculate your salary.

What annual salary do you want to record for your Income Protection insurance?

How to calculate your salary

The salary used to calculate your insurance benefit is:

If you're employed – what you earn before tax is taken out (gross salary) in the 12 months immediately prior to the date you become disabled. It includes incentive based payments and bonuses, overtime, shift loadings and allowances and any salary package you could otherwise take as cash. If you've worked for an Industry Employer for less than 12 months, your salary will be based on your average salary taken from the commencement of employment to the date you became disabled. Your salary doesn't include the super contributions your employer pays for you.

If you're self-employed – your gross income from personal exertion in the 12 months immediately prior to the date you become disabled less your business expenses in earning that income.

4. Choose your waiting period

- If you choose a shorter time between when you become sick or hurt (and unable to work) and when your insurance benefit starts, the cost of your insurance will usually be higher. For instance, the cost of your insurance increases by 50% if you choose a 30 day period instead of a 60 day period.
- If you choose a longer time the cost will generally be lower. For instance, the cost of your insurance reduces by 10% if you choose a 90 day period instead of a 60 day period. It will reduce by 20% if you choose a 120 day period instead of a 60 day period. However, if you pick a period of up to two years as per the Policy Extension Option, the cost will be the same as for the 60 day waiting period. You can choose this option within 90 days of joining or within 60 days of becoming disabled.
- If you don't choose your waiting period, we'll give you a 60 day waiting period.

Change the waiting period to: (Mark 'X' in one box)

14 days (with a two year benefit period only) 30 days 60 days 90 days 120 days
 Up to two years, as per the Policy Extension Option

Have you smoked tobacco or any other substance in any form in the past 12 months?
